About the Radio Club of America:

The Radio Club of America is the world’s oldest radio communications society, founded in 1909 in New York City to promote cooperation among those interested in the advancement and scientific study of radio communications. Formed by a small group of dedicated radio amateurs and experimenters nearly a century ago, the Radio Club of America counted among its early members the best in the radio communications industry: Maj. Edwin H. Armstrong, David Sarnoff, Louis Hazeltine, John V. L. Hogan, Paul Godley and Allen B. DuMont, to name just a few—these pioneers shaped the industry. Today, RCA is composed of modern pioneers, advancing the field of radio communications. Members also join RCA to network with other industry professionals, raise money for scholarships and to record radio communications history so that future pioneers may continue to build on the Club’s strong foundational cornerstone.
